Current Situation

In accessible areas crews continue to patrol, mop up, strengthen and reinforce the fire perimeter. In areas that are inaccessible, crews continue to monitor from vantage points. Within the fire perimeter areas of large unburned islands have been identified and mapped in the event fire behavior elevates and becomes a threat to challenge the current perimeter lines.

Fire personnel continue to mitigate road hazards throughout the Nacimento Ferguson, South Coast Ridge, Milpitas and Indians Roads. Fire suppression repair continues along HWY1 which includes reducing the visual impacts of dozer lines as well as restoring roads and drainage systems to minimize the potential of future erosion.

There will be a steady march toward 100 to 104 degrees at inland locations through Friday. That high pressure may weaken and a return to more normal temperatures is possible by the weekend.

COVID-19 - TO VIEW THE GRAPHS THAT WERE PREVIOUSLY FEATURED IN THE DAILY SITUATION REPORT PLEASE VISIT THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT WEBSITE HERE.

Novel Coronavirus is an outbreak of respiratory disease caused by a novel (new) coronavirus that was first detected in China and which has now been detected in more than 100 locations internationally, including in the United States. The virus has been named "SARS-CoV-2" and the disease it causes has been named "coronavirus disease 2019" (abbreviated "COVID-19"). All data is developed by the Health Department. For questions, comments, and concerns, call 831.769-8700 or 831.755.4521 or email covid-19@co.monterey.ca.us.

Note: Data includes records processed and de-duplicated from the backlog of reports associated with the statewide surveillance system's lab routing issue. The data cleaning process is ongoing locally. Data will be adjusted as case interviews are conducted and additional laboratory reports are received. Therefore, data should be interpreted with caution

STATUS OF SHELTER-IN-PLACE

Governor Gavin Newsom today unveiled the Blueprint for a Safer Economy, a statewide, stringent and slow plan for living with COVID-19 for the long haul. The plan imposes risk-based criteria on tightening and loosening COVID-19 allowable activities and expands the length of time between changes to assess how any movement affects the trajectory of the disease.

Like every aspect of California's response, data and science are the North Star, and as a result, this new framework makes a number of changes to the state's previous resilience roadmap.

Californians can go to covid19.ca.gov to find out where their county falls and what activities are allowable in each county.

"This Blueprint is statewide, stringent and slow," said Governor Newsom. "We have made notable progress over recent weeks, but the disease is still too widespread across the state. COVID-19 will be with us for a long time and we all need to adapt. We need to live differently. And we need to minimize exposure for our health, for our families and for our communities."

The Blueprint builds on lessons learned from the first six months of the disease – and the new scientific understanding that has been collected – to create a new system for regulating movement and COVID-19 transmissions. It includes:

1. At least 21 days to expand activities beyond the initial tier to ensure California better limits the spread of the virus;
2. Mandatory metrics – case rates and test positivity – to measure how widespread COVID-19 is in each county and guide what is allowed;
3. A uniform state framework, with four categories instead of 58 different sets of rules;
4. A more nuanced way of allowing activity: Instead of open vs. closed, sectors can be partially opened and progressively add to their operations as disease transmission decreases; and
5. A new process for tightening back up again quickly when conditions worsen.

The updated guidance can be found at https://covid19.ca.gov/.
